Recognized in the annual Most Innovative Companies for video messaging feature powering asynchronous communication

SAN FRANCISCO--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Asana, Inc. (NYSE:ASAN)(LTSE:ASAN), a leading work management platform for teams, today announced it's been named to Fast Company's prestigious list of the World's Most Innovative Companies for the second year in a row. Asana's Video Messaging powered by Vimeo, the world's leading all-in-one video platform, earned the #3 spot in the Joint Ventures category, honoring partnerships making the biggest impact on their industries and culture.

"As we enter a third year of distributed work, clarity is continuing to decline, while time spent in meetings is on the rise," said Billy Blau, Head of Business and Corporate Development, Asana. "According to our upcoming Anatomy of Work Index, more than 40% of knowledge workers are spending more time on synchronous calls each week than a year ago. By connecting Asana's industry-leading Work Graph data model with Vimeo's video messaging technology, we created a first-of-its-kind innovation that empowers teams to communicate context, stay connected and move work forward—anytime and anywhere."

"The way we work has fundamentally shifted, with meeting fatigue and overflowing inboxes impacting our ability to share ideas, knowledge and feedback. We see video as the next frontier of workplace comms—helping distributed teams stay connected across time zones," said Richard Bloom, SVP Business Development, Vimeo. "By integrating Vimeo's best-in-class video messaging capabilities with Asana's leading collaboration platform, teams across the globe are able to work better. We're proud that our partnership is recognized as one of the year's best innovations."

Announced in June 2021, Asana introduced Video Messaging powered by Vimeo as part of a suite of features to eliminate distributed work distractions and help employees find their focus. Additional productivity offerings enable people to prioritize their work with intelligent My Tasks, create time for focus with Clockwise's smart calendar assistant and quiet notifications with the Asana desktop app. To learn more, download How to find focus & flow in a distracted world.
